研究計画　Research Plan Middle Persian, as the direct descendant of Old Persian and the mother of Modern Persian, occupies a very important position among Iranian languages. A historical study of the different varieties of Middle Persian (i.e. Inscriptional, Zoroastrian, Manichaean and Christian Middle Persian) is not only important for Iranian linguistics in particular, but also important for Indo-European linguistics in general. This research project is intended to form part of a greater project which will shed new light on all aspects of Middle Persian grammar from a historical point of view.
